Bodulo cork and leather bench

Height	840mm
Width	550mm
Length	1540mm
Weight	59.2 kg

A vibrant interpretation of Sotho culture has found physical expression in newly launched benches, which is ready to make its mark on the world stage. The initial bench concepts was designed by the up-and-coming Khosi Leteba and brought to life in collaboration with one of South Africa’s leading design studios, Wiid Design, and with Creative Direction by Tracy Lynch of the Nando’s Design Programme, Clout.

Manufactured in Cape Town from organic and completely recyclable light cork. The cork is manufactured from recycled cork particles and is produced industrially without the use of additives.

The light grade cork is 98.5% natural with a small amount of adhesive to bind the granules, making it durable and user friendly. The bench seat is manufactured from high quality upholstered leather with artworks and graphics printed onto the surface.

Seat	Timberland black leather with custom printed African pattern
Body	Natural light facade cork
